

WITWER NAMED HUMAN RESOURCE OFFICER

The Port of Galveston has named Jacquelyn A. Witwer to the position of Human Resource Officer. She has thirty-two years of office management, experience including nineteen years in the human resources field.

Mrs. Witwer will be directly responsible for all aspects of personnel responsibilities including planing, designing, organizing, implementing and managing the personnel programs of the Port of Galveston. Major areas of responsibility include wage and salary administration, policy and legislative compliance, benefits administration, budgeting, affirmative action/EEOC compliance, staffing reporting, professional development and employee relations.

“We are pleased to have Jackie as part of our team and know that her experience in human resources will be invaluable as we plan for our future,” stated Steve Cernak, Port Director. "The many issues surrounding employee benefits must be dealt with in a professional manner on a daily basis and we know that Jackie has the experience and desire to handle those duties."
